As featured on The Hotel Inspector with Alex Polizzi

St Anne's House gained attention when it appeared on The Hotel Inspector with Alex Polizzi to help promote its new venture as a wedding venue.

The house already had plenty of charm, but Alex quickly identified areas where its presentation and organisation needed improvement. Her visit focused on refining the décor, strengthening the overall identity of the business, and enhancing the guest experience.

Her practical advice encouraged the owners to make better use of the building's features. By streamlining the interior, updating key spaces, and adopting a more confident approach, they were able to transform St Anne's House into a welcoming destination for weddings as well as holidays.

Since the episode aired, the property has continued to evolve and is now also a wedding venue, making full use of its period character and attractive setting.

Couples can enjoy the charm that Alex helped bring to the forefront, with the house now offering a distinctive, memorable backdrop for ceremonies and celebrations.

This new chapter builds on the improvements made during the show, giving St Anne's House a renewed purpose in the local hospitality scene.
